

Dr. Mohammed Shakeel Sillat, MD, DM, is an Assistant Professor in the Department of Infectious Diseases at Christian Medical College, Vellore. After completing his formal training in internal medicine, Dr. Sillat further trained in Infectious Diseases at Christian Medical College, Vellore.

He has a strong interest in adult vaccination and advocates for preventive measures to enhance public health. Dr. Sillat's research interests include travel medicine, vaccination in immunocompromised hosts, travel-related diseases, and tropical medicine. He is actively involved in setting up the immunization clinic for transplant patients and travelers at his institute.